

1. Carlos, 21, a foreign exchange student from Mexico, has severe peanut allergies. He is studying Economics at the University of Minnesota. Whether it's trying unfamiliar foods or skydiving, Carlos loves trying new things. In his free time, he enjoys playing soccer and practicing the piano. While studying in the US, his host family have some delicious looking home-made meals for dinner; however, neither Carlos nor his host family know whether unfamiliar foods like Mochi are something Carlos can safely eat.
2. Nancy, 22, is a senior CS and Biology double major at Carleton College who suffers from iron deficiency. Nancy is from the Windy City - Chicago. During her free time, she likes to read and go on long walks. She is currently living in a townhouse and is off the meal plan, so she has to cook quick meals for herself everyday. She rarely has time to prepare dinner and buy groceries.
3. Max Bolt is a 20 year-old junior studying Chemistry at Stanford University. He is a native Palo Alto, who is a dedicated athlete. His strongest events include the 100m, 200m, and 400m. He is 170 pounds and is trying to get to 140 pounds before the next intercollegiate athletics meet. He dreams of competing for the US in the next Summer Olympics.
4. Martha is a 20 year old student studying Art Practice at U.C Berkeley. Martha is from Seattle, WA. She likes to spend her free time collecting enamel pins. She is a type 2 diabetic whose blood sugar is above 13 and her doctor is putting her on insulin. Knowing that her diet and snacks at school have not been ideal, she knows it is time to take action.